

CITY BALL LEAGUE PLAY 19 MORE GAMES

PLAYERS HAVE GIVEN THE FANS A GOOD QUALITY OF BALL.

LEAGUE WORTHY OF SUPPORT

Schedule of Games for Balance of the Season Promises Interesting Contests.

Nineteen more games remain to be played in the Dixon City Baseball league, and during the half season which remains the people of the city are promised an exceedingly good baseball race for the league honors, and incidentally the fans will be given an opportunity to give the local people and players who are back of the affair the patronage which they deserve.

The conditions surrounding the leagues are such that they are worthy the support of Dixon people and big crowds should attend the games and help the players and the association. All of the proceeds of the games are divided among the players, who are Dixon young men, with the exception of a small percentage which is taken out to pay league expenses and to pay the indebtedness contracted in the erection of the fence and stands at the new Lincoln park. Consequently the perpetuation of the institution should be a matter of local civic pride.

The schedule of games for the balance of the season promises some interesting contests.

ILLINOIS INCOME TAX TOTALS SEVERAL MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Washington, July 8.—The personal income tax yielded $2,076,161.11 in the state of Illinois, according to figures given out by the Treasury Department today. The first, or Chicago district, yielded $1,915,149.92.

The amount yielded by the corporation excise and income taxes in Illinois was $4,293,649.68, of which the Chicago district alone produced $3,835,403.50.

The second New York district, which includes the Wall street section, led in the amount of personal income tax returns with $7,950,070.02.

The total returns for the United States, according to the estimate of today, which is subject to revision upon analysis later, are $43,979,819.44 from the corporation excise

MANY ATTEND RACES AT MENDOTA TUESDAY

MANY DIXON PEOPLE PRESENT
ON THE OPENING DAY.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS ARE IDEAL

Governor, Toulon Horse, Wins the 2:35 Trot in 2:18½, Six Heats.

An exceptionally large crowd, including many Dixonites, attended the opening of the Mendota races yesterday afternoon, and they were rewarded by seeing three decidedly interesting contests, two of which went six heats.

The Mendota association this year has 176 entries for its contests, including many new horses which are candidates for the Illinois Valley circuit, and the contests yesterday were above suspicion.

The 2:35 trot was won by Governor, a Toulon horse, the race going six heats. The best time was 2:18½. Lillian T, a young Tennessee mare, won the 2:30 pace in straight heats, the performance being noteworthy in that the race was the first in which the game little mare has ever participated, and she turned the trick with but thirty days of training. Her best time was 2:15½. The 2:11 pace also went to six heats. Sonnetus Jr., winning; best time 2:11½.

Dixon race lovers find the train connections ideal for spending an afternoon at the Mendota track and doubtless scores from this city will attend tomorrow, which is to be the big day of the meet. The northbound train, leaving Mendota at 7:35 o'clock in the evening, makes it possible for all who go from Dixon to remain in Mendota until the completion of the afternoon sport.

WILL START IN BUSINESS FOR HIMSELF WITHIN A FEW DAYS.

Will Cahill has resigned his position with the I. N. U. company and in a few days will start in business for himself, wiring houses and doing all kinds of electrical work. Mr. Cahill will open an office as soon as arrangements can be made.

Mr. Cahill began work for the Power company in 1889, twenty-five years ago. At that time the power house was behind the shoe factory and the shoe factory boilers were used by the company at night, having at that time no day service.

Mr. Cahill is an expert workman and will no doubt succeed in his business. He has scores of friends who will aid and assist him in every way possible.

FLOOR COLLAPSES WORKMAN ESCAPES

WALTER SMITH HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS INJURY.

Walter Smith, son of Contractor Mark D. Smith, had a narrow escape from serious injury at about 2 o'clock this afternoon when the second floor of the old Rosenthal building on First street, which is being razed for the erection of a new business structure, collapsed, throwing him into the basement. Fortunately none of the falling timbers struck him and he escaped without injury.

The floor of the building collapsed without warning when some supports were knocked from the walls, and the terrific noise caused considerable excitement.

The thirty-second annual session of the Dixon District camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal church will open at Franklin Grove tomorrow at noon, and for ten days the popular camp meeting grounds will be the scene of some inspiring and enjoyable sessions. The grounds have been put in most excellent condition for the meetings, and the program, which has been built with a view of reviving the soul, refreshing the body and invigorating the mind, promises some excellent things for those who attend.

Bishop William Fraser McDowell, D.D., L.L.D., will open the meeting with an address at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, which will be preceded by a band concert by the Franklin Grove band, which organization will also escort Bishop McDowell to the camp grounds. "Studies in the Rural Church" by Book Review, under the direction of Rev. A. W. Otis, conducted by the pastors of the district, should be of great help to all who are interested in the rural church problem.

The Epworth League meetings, in charge of Rev. I. P. Berry, promise splendid things for the young people. Rev. J. O. Randolf, D. D., corresponding secretary of the Conference Commission of Evangelism, will have a present day message on the subject of Evangelism.

Dr. John Thompson, superintendent of the Chicago Western District, and Dr. Frank D. Sheets, superintendent of the Joliet District, two strong preachers of the Conference, are both to be present. Ellwood Barnes, a new witness, testified today that he had seen a woman whom he was unable to identify running from the doctor's office soon after the shot which killed Mrs. Bailey. He said she wore a dark skirt, and a white shirtwaist. At previous sessions of the inquest witnesses had sworn that Mrs. Carman was thus attired at the time of the murder. She maintained that she wore a kimono and was in her bedroom.

STREATOR MERCHANTS INSPECT OUR LIGHTS

THAT CITY HAS ADOPTED THE HALF-HOLIDAY PLAN AND PLEASED WITH IT.

Charles Williams, a leading merchant of Streator, and party of business men from that city, motored to Dixon yesterday and inspected our system of boulevard lights. The party spent last evening and today in our city visiting the Reynolds wire screen factory, Lowell park and Grand Detour. They expressed themselves as pleased with the lighting system and also marveled at the beauty of Dixon and the surrounding country, complimenting us upon the excellence of the roads surrounding our town. Mr. Williams had also something to say concerning the custom of observing a weekly half-holiday, wondering that this city, as a live and progressive Illinois town, had not already adopted the plan, thus following the practice of Streator. Streator has recently declared a weekly half-holiday and has found the system to be very practical and paying, and not at all inconvenient. The plan met with some opposition on the part of the Streator business men at first just the same as it will in this city, but a dozen of the more progressive merchants banded together and inaugurated the holiday and proved the plan to be so successful that the entire city very shortly adopted it.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR STATE AID ROAD

SPECIFICATIONS HAVE BEEN RE-CEIVED FROM STATE HIGH-WAY COMMISSION.

SPECIAL MEETING OF BOARD

Supervisors Must Pass on Plans at Session Next Tuesday Afternoon.

A special meeting of the Lee county board of supervisors will be held at the court house next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at which time the specifications for the first state aid road in Lee county, provided for under the Tice road law, will be subject to the approval of the board.

The specifications for the permanent road have just been received from the State Highway Commission, which body has approved them, and as soon as the necessary approval of the supervisors is received the state commission will advertise the work for bids.

The specifications call for a concrete pavement, ten feet wide, commencing at Shippert's Corners on the Chicago road, and continuing in a southeasterly direction for a distance of about two miles. This concrete pavement will be in the center of the highway and a four-foot macadam shoulder will be constructed on each side of the concrete.

DR. MOSS EMPLOYS

ASSISTANT DENTIST

Ever increasing practice, which has reached a stage where he has not the time to do all of the work personally, has made it necessary for Dr. Z. W. Moss to engage an assistant, and accordingly he has secured Dr. Buchner, a graduate and practicing dentist, to help him. Another complete office will be set up in Dr. Moss's dental parlors and hereafter patrons will find ample facilities for quick work, all of which, of course, will be done under Dr. Moss's personal supervision.

WASH PAVEMENTS.

The street department this morning put a force of men at work washing the pavements in the business district of the city. The cleaning was badly needed and will be greatly appreciated by the merchants.

BAND CONCERT.

The concert to be given by the Dixon Marine band on Thursday evening will be held in John Dixon park on the north side.

EMELINE PANKHURST RESUMES COMMAND—ARRESTED NOON TODAY

(Associated Press.)

London, July 8.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst today resumed command of the Women's Social Political Union for a short period. She moved in and reoccupied the old offices. At noon when she emerged for luncheon she was arrested and taken to the Holloway jail. There were violent scenes around the criminal court building today during the trial of four militants who were arrested in a raid on a flat May 21. In the rooms were found new shrapnel grenades and coils of fuse and plans of houses. Two of the militants refused to plead and when two police-

BE A PRACTICAL THING FOR DIXON MERCHANTS?—
MANY THINK SO.

GOOD FOR EMPLOYER AND CLERK

Other Cities Have It and Believe
Plan Very Good Business
Move.

The announcement of the local dentists that Thursday afternoons will be half holidays for them the rest of the summer, that is through the rest of July, August and September, is one based on good hard common sense. The foregoing would seem to be a peculiar statement, but nevertheless its peculiarity does not detract one bit from its truth.

During the hot summer months is when many cases of nervous prostration and general breakdown in business men are reported, the continued strain of forced attention to business cares and excitements being entirely too much for many people. They are in need of rest and long continued rest, but this is impossible. The only day for relaxation is Sunday, and that one day for recuperation seems in the summer to be inadequate.

A vacation is impossible and holidays are few and far between, so what does the overtaxed, nervously exhausted, worn out clerk or proprietor do? They drag wearily about their tasks through the months of July and August, shirking whenever possible, tiredly wishing for more rest. Hot nights and sizzling days, and through them all the terrible strain of nervous depression and physical inadequacy. Their work is not up to standard and somebody is loser. This is loss. A general let-down is needed, after which the employee can be of double value to the employer and the employer himself gain added zest to attack the problems of business life. Such a let-down would be gain. This gain is only possible through a weekly half-holiday. Thus the matter has resolved itself indirectly into a case of dollars and cents and so proves the opening statement that a Thursday half-holiday is founded of rock hard principles, of good common sense.

Many cities larger than Dixon have their regular weekly half-holidays. There where the rush and volume of business is much greater it is found possible to devote an afternoon to relaxation and recreation.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR E. GROVE BRIDGES

COUNTY AID STRUCTURES WILL BE CONTRACTED FOR SAT-URDAY, JULY 18.

County Superintendent of Highways L. B. Neighbour has completed the plans and specifications for the new Armstrong and Chandler bridges which are to be erected in East Grove township, with county aid; and bids, to be received and opened at his office in the court house on Saturday, July 18, are being advertised for. These bridges will be the first to be constructed in Lee county under the supervision of the county superintendent, which office was created by the Tice road law.

MRS. BRIDGES IMPROVES.

Mrs. Roy Bridges, who has been at the Dixon hospital for some time, will be taken home tomorrow. Her condition is most encouraging.

Sterling, July 8.—The city of Sterling is short $263 of its appropriation this year, that amount of delinquent taxes not being collected and turned over to the city by County Treasurer Parmenter, according to a statement made to the council by City Clerk Wilger Monday evening. In discussing the matter Mayor Platt stated that the city has now on hand $12,542 as against $17,768 a year ago, or more than $5,000 less than at that time, while as compared with two years ago the city is $2,000 better off.

In The Field of Sports

WHAT "WHITE-HOPE" CAN BEAT JOHNSON

SMITH AND JESS WILLARD ARE LOOKED UPON AS MEN WHO CAN DO THE STUNT.

BOTH MEN IN GOOD CONDITION

Smith is a Clever Fighter and Hard Hitter and One Who Will Stick the Champ.

Now that one so-called "white hope" has proved a dismal failure at the job of annexing the heavyweight title onto white shoulders again, the question is raised who will be the next big fellow to mix with Johnson? There is not much room for choice among heavyweights, as Americans classifying high in the weighty class are few and far between. There are just two big fellows in this country capable of taking on Johnson for a real fight, Gunboat Smith and Jess Willard. These fighters are both the real thing and there seems no doubt that if either entered the ring with the smoky champion that there would be a real fight and not a moving picture scenario such as was staged in Paris the week before last. Moran, it will be readily admitted, did not gain his right to fight Johnson through beating the other heavyweights of this country. It was rather through clever management and timely publicity that he was able to stage the go with Johnson. Moran had been twice badly defeated by Smith and was entirely lacking in that form and condition that is necessary to gain the big belt. He had everything to gain and nothing to lose, as his share of the prize money was guaranteed, win, lose or draw, and there was the chance of landing a lucky wallop which might bring him to the front as champ. Smith and Willard are both his superiors, and either one or the other should have a chance at Johnson. If Smith is unable to turn the trick, then let Willard have his try, for, although he was defeated not so long about by the Gunboat, he has improved wonderfully in his fighting since the time the referee called the bout in favor of Smith. That fight should have been declared a draw, is what those who know have to say.

Smith is a clever fighter and a hard hitter and one that will stick with Johnson to the last minute. Willard is the only pugilist in this country that has anything on the black paper in matter of weight and reach. Both of these whites are competent to give the negro a splendid milling and they should have the chance. A fight between either of them and Johnson should be staged within the next year, and possibly will.

CACTUS GRAVATH

Red McGhee says:

The fairies tell some yarns about a turtle puttin' on a 'bout o' racin' with a hare. The rabbit sprung a burst o' speed, then stopped when it had copped a lead an' slept with a care. The turtle, as the story goes, just kept on followin' its nose — it didn't hesitate. An' that slow-goin', steady bloke had crossed the line when Bunny woke. Some yarn, that, b'lieve me, mate.

It's just like Old Three-Hundred's tale. His pace was like a winded snail in comin' from the bush. He showed the coast league fans his worth but when he sought a big league berth he somehow lacked the push. The A. A. circuit went clear daft about his drives. But in the draft Cravath was overlooked. Cravath was nearly 30 when his name went in for draft again an' finally he hooked.

Right off the bat he banged the pill all 'round the Phillies' lot until they hailed him Home Run King. He can't beat out an infield throw, so all his wallpops have to go clear past the inner ring. Eleven times in every year he's banged that little horsehide sphere an' gone the whole way 'round. The way he massacres the ball he doesn't hav to worry 'tall 'bout coverin' out field ground.

WELCH DEFEATS WILLIE RITCHIE

Briton Given Decision on Points In Twenty Rounds.

AMERICAN STRONGER AT FINISH

Account of Affair Reads More Like Society Event Than Prize Fight—Minister Master of Ceremonies—Many Pastors Present—Society Out in Force—Debutantes There.

London, July 7.—In one of the most sensational, certainly one of the most picturesque, ring contests of modern times Freddie Welsh plucked the world's lightweight championship crown from the frowning brows of Willie Ritchie. The British titleholder clearly outpointed the American champion through twenty rounds of sensational combat at the Olympic Athletic Club. Not one dissenting voice questioned the verdict of Referee Eugene Corri.

The end found both these rugged battlers on their feet, milling away as spiritedly as ever, as if the title rested upon one more titanic effort. Of the two the rugged American appeared the fresher. Welsh had slowed and tired in the last few rounds before the Herculean efforts of the defender. Yet he had won. Corri's decision was endorsed by everybody.

Clergy and Women There.
Yes, clergy and femininity as well as nobility were gathered round the ringside long before the boxers clamored over the ropes. Gay Paris, in its most wilful disregard of convention, never outdid the London of the night. For was not the Rev. J. H. Boumiers, the master of ceremonies? And did not 2,000 daintily gloved hands beat their graceful salutations as he announced the principals?

True, at first the Rev. Boumiers' phonographic voice sounded muffled also, somewhat in keeping with the applause of the fair spectators. But he looked close at hand to some boxes where were seated the two score clergy. Thereafter he proceeded bravely in spite of a choking collar and as if the bishop of Stephen were no concern of his. The bishop of Stephen had forbidden to serve in like capacity. The Rev. Everard Digby, vicar of St. Agathas, who recently acted as sponsor of the Bombardier Wells-Colin Bell encounter, was never to be forgotten by those privileged to see the coronation of a new light weight monarch. The group of light colored ministers in evening dress was but a trifle more dignified in behavior than the lords and dukes surrounding them. They applauded as heartily, if slightly less vociferously, the introductions of the champion and the challenger, and throughout the heated duel even the clergy so far forgot the straight and narrow path as to vent a hearty cheer for some telling blow well sped.

Debutantes There Also.
Bejeweled matrons and budding debutantes were present. They exhorted; they applauded; they cheered; at times they waved their graceful arms or shrugged their pretty bare shoulders as either pugilist rallied to turn the tide of battle.

Ritchie's recent visit at the Galvin cottage in this city resulted in more than ordinary interest being manifest here in the outcome of the fight, and The Telegraph bulletin board at Kennedy's cigar store, which furnished the only information of the battle received in Dixon, was surrounded by an enormous crowd. The service was excellent.

LECTURER WHO MAKES HIS HEARERS THINK

GLENN FRANK IS THAT MAN—AT DIXON ASSEMBLY THIS SEASON.

The present is a day of readjustments. The rise of democracy is engrossing the attention of the world's greatest thinkers. The people are making an imperious demand for the control of their own affairs. Every nation in the world is shaken by the movement, and history is being quietly made in the slow moving of a mighty current.

In America the evidences of the movement are everywhere. Education, commerce, industry, art, letters, statecraft, are feeling the presence of a new spirit moving in the hearts of the people. Political machines are tottering in the rush of the waters; social dynasties are crumbling. A revolution, not of blood, but of mind, is remaking America. A new declaration of independence is being written.

Of the younger generation of profound thinkers, none has left a greater impress upon the people than Glenn Frank of Northwestern University, and none has made an abler contribution to the ferment which is building a new and a better America. Mr. Frank could be a great humorist if he would; a great writer; a great preacher; for he has the mental equipment and the high ideals essential to the achievement of greatness along any of these lines. But his heart is on fire with a desire for service in the great arena of social reform, and he has given himself unreservedly to the platform, where his lectures on sociological themes, correct in premise, logical in construction, irrefutable in conclusion, and clothed in chaste language, have been universally acclaimed as masterpieces of convincing platform presentation. They voice the most advanced thought of the present day on the great problems of social and industrial justice. His hearers may not all agree with him, but they will THINK—and that, after all, is the important thing, for when the American people really think, they inevitably think JUSTICE.

Mr. Frank's lecture here on the Chautauqua platform will be in connection with Community Betterment Day, an eminently proper placing, for his addresses are not only community building, but nation building in scope.

PITTSBURG LADIES ORCHESTRA

The Pittsburgh Ladies' Orchestra, under the skillful leadership of Prof. Albert D. Liefeld, give an entertainment of unusual merit. Their concerts are educational in character, and strengthen the musical life of a community. The programs are rendered in a very effective manner, the interest of the entire audience being maintained. There are twelve young women in the company and it can be said of them they make music. Their solo work on the different instruments is exceedingly fine and the whole company is so equipped as to elicit the highest praise from all who are fortunate enough to hear them. It is a special favor to secure them for the Rock River Assembly. They are a "bunch" that it does one good to meet. August 6 and 7. A prelude and full concert each day.

Dramatic RolesFAMILY THEATRE.

The Family theatre will show two special feature pictures this evening. One is a three-reel subject called Love Luck and Gasoline, and features John Bunny. It is a Vitaphone marine comedy, showing interesting experiences with hydroaeroplanes, motor boats, yachts and aeroplanes. A two-reel feature called The Girl From Prosperity will also be shown. This will make an exceptionally strong bill showing five reels in all.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

On Thursday night the Princess theatre will show the first installment of "The Million Dollar Mystery." This is the wonderful Thanhouser feature that has taken the cities by storm and packed the theatres wherever shown. This picture is different from the Kathryn pictures and the stage settings are magnificent and costly. The picture and story is one of excitement and adventure in pursuit of the lost millionaire and his money after his thrilling escape from the top of his house in a balloon and after his explosion and descend into the ocean after being shot by one of the conspirators. These are all scenes of the first installment. The management wishes to announce that all those who can come in the afternoon do so as the crowds at night cannot be accommodated.

PEG O' MY HEART—AT THE GARRICK THEATRE.

"Peg o' My Heart" is now playing its second week of capacity audiences at the Garrick theatre, Chicago, at which place it has established itself for a run which promises to eclipse all previous long distance records in that city. The vogue of the famous comedy by J. Hartley Manners in New York lasted two entire years so its Chicago success with a winsome Peggy O'Neil playing the vivacious Irish heroine was not entirely unexpected but even the most optimistic of managers did not expect the play to score the tremendous hit it has in the summer season, so deadly to theatres. Oliver Morosco, owner of "Peg" has announced that he intends to keep his comedy in Chicago for a full year and the members of the company are so sure that his promise will be made good that they have embarked on a general hunt for apartments to settle down for their long stay. Miss O'Neil's personal success in the difficult role of "Peg" has won for her instant popularity and it is rumored in many quarters that her name will go on the electric signs in front of the Garrick before many weeks have passed, thus raising her to full stellar rank. It is a rather remarkable fact that there are two canine actors in "Peg o' My Heart" who are making almost as great a hit as the human players. The two dogs, Michael and Pet, show by contrast the difference in stations between their respective mistresses. Peg, the waltz from New York sent to live with her aristocratic and snobbish London relatives, and Ethel Chichester, the potted daughter of the English family. Michael is a scruffy haired Irish terrier with the true dog instinct, while Pet is a beribboned fluffy little lap dog who scorns to soil her dainty feet and who spends all of her time in the house, while Michael is chasing cats from the vicinity. The cast of "Peg o' My Heart" includes Emelie Melville and Henry Stanford, who originated their roles in "Peg o' My Heart." Clarence Handysides, Reginald Mason, Ruth Garland and Christine Norman, all of the company that supported Miss Laurette Taylor during the two year New York run and, of course, Peggy O'Neil, who headed her own company last season.

Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday, and especial attention will be paid to mail orders accompanied by check.

tion, and there is no financial loss from the practice.

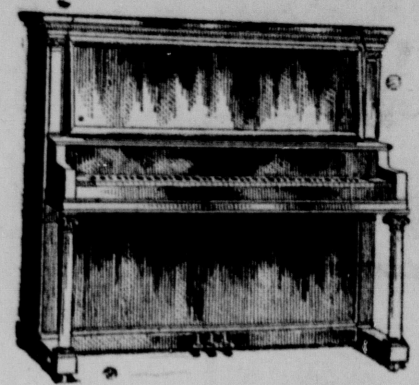

If a city like Rockford can spare a half a day for its tired clerks and business men, what is to hinder Dixon from following out the same splendid plan? There is nothing, absolutely nothing. This is a proven statement, for the experiment was tried three weeks ago when the new ball park was dedicated. Few people, of course, realized that that day was a test holiday, but it was, and furthermore was a successful one. The closing of all the business houses of the city was accomplished without any inconvenience to anyone. People took proper relaxation and exercise and were brighter for the day's outing. From every angle, but especially that of business convenience, the Thursday half-holiday was found practical.

The stores of this city are open on Wednesday evenings and Thursdays are therefore days slightly slacker in the business way than other days. Farmers when informed of the change would shift their trading to the morning or some other afternoon. The work of the business houses was easily arranged to provide for the half day's absence the first half-holiday and could be so disposed of again. Every clerk and many employers expressed themselves as satisfied with the success of the arrangements made on that Thursday. The financial loss was probably nil and, as has been proven in cities where the holiday is regularly established, it is generally preceded by a slight spending wave that is good for the pocketbook and also even up the week's business, partly doing away with the awful Saturday rush.

Many Dixon business men advocate the holiday—more than would be thought. To them it has a peculiar and practical appeal, for there are actual business benefits to be derived from the establishment of a half holiday. Many Dixon people are convinced of its practicability and now only concerted action is needed to regularly establish Thursday afternoons as a half holiday.

Hal Smith of Chicago, a former Dixon resident, now representing the Hudson Automobile Company, was here today on business with Wm. Schuler.

???????????????????? The Secret of Lonesome Cove By SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS Copyright, 1912, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company ????????????????????

No sooner had he reached the hotel and changed into dry clothes than he made haste to the Nook and thus addressed Sedgwick. "Now I'm your man for that tennis match."

Kent played as he worked, with concentration and tenacity, backing up technical skill. Against his dogged attack Sedgwick's characteristically more brilliant game was unavailing, though the contest was not so uneven but that both were sweating hard as at the conclusion of the third set they sought a breathing space on the terraced bank back of the court.

"That's certainly a good nerve sedative," said the artist, breathing hard, "and not such rotten tennis for two aged relics of better days like ourselves."

"Not so bad by any means," agreed his opponent cheerfully. "If you had stuck to lobbing I think you'd have had me in the second set. Wonder how our spectator enjoyed it?" he added, lowering his voice. "Don't be abrupt about it, but just take a look at that illac corpse on the crest of the hill."

"Can't see any one there," said Sedgwick.

"No more can I. Look at the bird on that young willow. You can see for yourself it's trying to impart some information."

"I see a grasshopper sparrow in a state of some nervousness. But grasshopper sparrows are always fidgety."

"This particular one has reason to be. She has a nest in that illac patch. A few minutes ago she went toward it with a worm in her beak, hastily dropped the worm and came out in a great state of mind; hence I judge there is some intruder near her home."

"Any guess who it is?"

"Why, it might be Gansett Jim," replied Kent in a louder voice. "Though it's rather stupid of him to pick out a bird inhabiting a bush as a hiding place."

The illac bush shook a little, and Gansett Jim came forth.

"He went to Carr's Junction," said the half breed curtly.

"You found his trail?" asked Kent. The other nodded. "This morning," he said.

"Find anything else?"

"No. I kill him if I get him!" He turned and vanished over the rise of ground back of the court.

"Now what does that mean?" demanded Sedgwick in amazement.

"That is Gansett Jim's apology for suspecting you," explained Kent. "He is our ally now, and this is his first information. What a marvelous thing the bulldog strain in a race is! Nobody but an Indian would have kept to an almost hopeless trail as he has done."

"The trail of the real murderer?" cried Sedgwick.

Kent shook his head. "You're still obsessed with dubious evidence," he remarked. "Let me see your timetable."

Having studied the schedules that the artist produced for him, he nodded considerably. "Boston it is, then," he said. "As I thought, Sedgwick, I'm off for two or three days of travel—if we get through this night without disaster."

CHAPTER XIV.

Digging.

NIGHT came on in murk and mist. As the clouds gathered thicker, Chester Kent's face took on a more and more satisfied expression. Sedgwick, on the contrary, gloomed sorely at the suspense. From time to time Kent thrust a hand out of the window. Shortly after midnight there was a splutter of rain on the roof.

"The time has come for action," said Kent. "Be thankful. Get on your coat."

Sedgwick brightened at once. "Right-o!" he said. "Get your lamps lighted and I'll be with you."

"No lights. Ours is a deep, dark, desperate, devilish, dime novel design. Got a spade and a pick? If you haven't a pick, two spades will do. In fact, they'll be better."

Sedgwick's heart froze. He visioned the wet soil of Annalaka burying ground, heaped above a loose hasped pine box.

"Good God! Is it that?" he muttered. He went out into the dark, presently returning with the tools. Kent took them out and disposed them in the car.

"Get in," he directed.

"If we had to do this, Kent," said Sedgwick, shuddering in his seat, "why haven't we done it before?"

The other turned on the power. "You're on the wrong track, as usual," he remarked. "It couldn't be done before."

"Well, it can't be done now," cried the artist in sudden sharp excitement. "Annalaka burying ground is watched. Lawyer Bain said as much. Don't you remember? He told us that the house next door is occupied by an old sleepless asthmatic, who spends half her nights in her window overlooking the graves."

The car shot forward again. "Is that all?" asked Kent.

"Isn't it enough?"

"Hardly. We're not going within miles of Annalaka."

Sedgwick felt with horror the tumbling of the helpless sudden body within. With a powerful effort Kent swung his end up on the mound. The lantern flashed. By its gleam Sedgwick saw Kent striving to force his spade edge under the coffin lid to pry it loose. The chuckle sounded again.

"That's enough," said a heavy voice with a suggestion of mirthful appreciation.

Sheriff Len Schlager stepped from behind a tree. He held a revolver on Kent. Sedgwick made a swift motion and the muzzle swung accurately on him.

"Steady, Frank," warned Kent anxiously.

"I'm steady enough," returned the other. "What a fool I was not to bring a gun!"

"Oh, no," contradicted the scientist. "Of what use is my gun? We're in the light, and he is in the shadow."

"So you've got a gun on you, eh?" remarked the sheriff, his chuckle deepening.

"I didn't say so."

"No, but you gave yourself away. Hands up, please. Both of you."

Four hands went up in the air. Kent's face, in the light, was very downcast, but from the far corner of his mouth came the faintest ghost of a whistle melody—all in a minor key.

It died away on the night air and the musician spoke in rapid French.

"Attention! La ruse gagne. Quand je lui donnerai le coup de pied, battez-le à terre."

"Listen! A trick wins. When I kick him, strike him to the ground."

"What's that gibberish?" demanded Schlager.

"Very well," said Sedgwick quickly, in the tone of one who accepts instructions. "I'll be still enough. Go ahead and do the talking."

"Better both keep still," advised the deceived sheriff. "Anything you say can be used against you at the trial. And the penalty for body snatching is twenty years in this state."

"Yes, but what constitutes body snatching?" murmured Kent.

"You do, I guess," retorted the humorous sheriff. "Steady with those hands. Which pocket, please, professor?"

"Right hand coat if you want my money," answered the scientist sullenly.

"Nothing like that," laughed the officer. "Your gun will do at present."

"I haven't got any gun."

"I hear you say it! Remember, mine is pointed at your stomach."

"Correct place," approved Kent, quietly shifting his weight to his left foot.

"It's the seat of human courage. Well!" as Schlager pressed pocket after pocket without result, "you can't say I didn't warn you. Now, Frank!"

With the word there was a sharp spat as the heel of Kent's heavy boot, flying up in the kick of his own devising, caught the sheriff full on the wrist, breaking the bones and sending the revolver a spin into the darkness.

As instantly Sedgwick struck, swinging full armed, and Schlager went down, half stunned.

"Pin him, Frank," ordered Kent in a low tone.

But Sedgwick needed no directions, now that resolute action was the order of the moment. His elbow was already pressed into the sheriff's built neck. Schlager lay still, moaning a little.

"Good work, my boy," approved Kent, who had retrieved the revolver.

"Who clubbed me?" groaned the fallen man. "I didn't see no third feller. And what good's it going to do you anyway? There you are, and there's the robbed grave. Exaggerated by assault on an officer of the law," he added technically.

"That is right, too, Kent," added Sedgwick, with shaking voice. "Whatever we do, I don't see but what we are disgraced and ruined."

"Unless," suggested Kent, with mild toned malice, "we rid ourselves of the only witness to the affair."

A little gasp issued from the thick lips of Len Schlager. But he spoke with courage and not without a certain dignity. "You got me," he admitted quietly. "If it's killin', why, I guess it's as good a way to go as any. An officer murdered in the discharge of his duty."

"Not so sure about the duty, Schlager," said Kent, with a change of tone. "But your life is safe enough in any event. Pity you're such a grafter, for you've got your decent points. Let him up, Sedgwick."

Relieved of his assailant's weight, Schlager undertook to rise, set his hand on the ground and collapsed with a groan.

"Too bad about that wrist," said Kent. "I'll take you back in my car to have it looked after as soon as we've finished here."

"I s'pose you know I'll have to arrest you, just the same?"

"Don't bluff," retorted the other carelessly. "It wastes time. Steady! Here comes the rest of the party."

Across the moonlit lawn moved briskly the spare, alert figure of the owner of Hedgerow house. His hand grasped a long barreled pistol. He made straight for the grove of graves. With five yards of the willows he stopped, because a voice from behind one of them had suggested to him that he do so.

"I also am armed," the voice added menacingly.

Hesitancy flickered in Mr. Blair's face for a brief moment. Then, with set jaw, he came on.

"Two men of courage to deal with in a single night. That's all out of proportion," commented the voice with a slight laugh. "Mr. Blair, I really should dislike shooting you."

"Who are you?" demanded Mr. Blair. "Chester Kent."

"What are you doing on my property at this hour?"

"Digging."

"Ah!" It was hardly an exclamation; rather, it was a contained commentary. Mr. Blair had noted the exhumed casket. "You might better have taken my offer," he continued after a pause of some seconds. "I think, sir, you have dug the grave of your own career."

"That remains to be seen."

"Schlager! Are you there?"

"Yes, Mr. Blair. They've broken my wrist and got my gun."

"Who are they?"

"Francis Sedgwick is the other, at your service," answered the owner of that name.

An extraordinary convulsion of rage distorted the set features of the elderly man.

"You!" he cried. "Haven't you done enough without this?"

CHAPTER XV.

The Turn of the Game.

STRICKEN with amazement at the hatred in the tone, Sedgwick stood staring. But Kent stepped before the advancing man. "This won't do," he said firmly.

"We can't any of us afford killing."

"I can," contradicted Mr. Blair.

"You would gain nothing by it. If one of us is killed the other will finish the task. You know what I am here for, Mr. Blair. I purpose to open that coffin and then go."

"No," said the master of Hedgerow house. And it was twenty years ago since his "no" had been overborne.

"Yes," returned Chester Kent quietly. Mr. Blair's arm rose, steady and slow, with the inevitable motion of machinery.

"If you shoot," pointed out Kent, "you will rouse the house. Is there no one there from whom you wish to conceal that coffin?"

The arm rose higher until the muzzle of the pistol glared like a baleful, lusterless eye into Kent's face. In stead of making any counter motion with the sheriff's revolver the scientist turned on his heel, walked to Sedgwick and handed him the weapon. "I'm going to open the coffin, Frank," he announced. "That pistol of Mr. Blair's is a target arm. It has only one shot."

"True," put in its owner, "but I can score 120 with it at a hundred yards."

"If he should fire, Frank, wing him. And then, whatever happens, get that casket open. That is the one thing you must do—for me and yourself."

Sedgwick stepped to within two paces of Blair. "Blair," he said, with a snarl, "you so much as think with that trigger finger and you're dead!"

"No; no killing, Frank," countermanded Kent. "In his place you'd perhaps do as he is doing."

He worked the blade of a spade craftily under the lid and began to pry. The cover gave slightly. Mr. Blair's pistol sank to his side. "I should have shot before warning you," he said bitterly. "Violating graves is, I suppose, your idea of a lawful and orderly proceeding."

The rending crackle of the hard, heavy wood was his answer. Kent stooped and struggled up, bearing a shapeless heavy object in his arms. The object seemed to be swathed in sacking. Kent let it fall to the ground, where it lopped and lay. "All right," said he, with a strong exhalation of relief. "I knew it must be. And yet—well, one never is absolute in certainty. And if I'd been wrong I think, Frank, we could profitably have used that gun on ourselves. You can drop it now. Come over here."

Courageous though Sedgwick was, his nerves were of a highly sensitive order. He shuddered back. "I don't believe I can do it, Chet."

"You must. As a witness. Come, brace up!"

Setting the bullseye lantern down, Kent produced a pocketknife. Sedgwick drew a long breath, and, walking over, crouched, steeling his nerves against the revelation that should come when the cords should be cut and the swathings reveal their contents. "If I keel over, don't let me tumble into the grave," he said simply and choked the last word off from becoming a cry of horror as he beheld his friend drive the knife blade to the hilt in the body and then whip it across and downward with a long ripping draw under which the harsh cloth sang hideously.

"Open your eyes! Look, look!" cried Kent heartily.

A strong trickle of sand flowed out of the rent in the sack and spread upon the ground.

"That is all," said Kent.

Relief clamored within Sedgwick for expression. He began to laugh in short choking spasms.

"Quiet!" warned Mr. Blair, in a broken tone of appeal. "You've found out the secret. God knows what you'll do with it. But there are innocent people in the house. What is this matter? Blackmail?"

Kent's face withdrew, as it were, behind his inscrutable half smile. "Peace, if you will," said he. "A truce at least."

The services were held at the German Lutheran par-sonage and were in the presence of the bride's father, Mr. Frederick Johns, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Huldah Moser. The bride was very pretty in a gown of lavender mulle with a pretty white hat and carried a shower bouquet of roses.

The bride was attired in a hand-some gown of white crepe and wore a corsage bouquet of lilies of the val-ley. Miss Dorothy Searles, a niece of the young lady, was ring bearer and the Searles home was very prettily decorated with roses, carnations and sweet peas, the color scheme being pink and white.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs. Eastman left for a short wed-ding tour in an automobile. They will be at home to their many friends after September 1st.

Eastman of Harvard, Ill., who was the only out of town guest at the wedding. If you are sick and miserable, and suffer from any of the pains due to womanly trouble—try Cardui.

THE MARINES.

In times of peace their only job is lookin' trim an' neat—The coppers of the battleship, the loafers of the fleet—An' every time a congressman can't find no better means Of makin' fame he up an' wells, "Abolish the marines!" But long before the first big gun rips out its bellowin' roar, Them same marines drop overside an' goes an' starts the war!

They're neither soldiers on the land nor sailors on the sea, But they are always 'fightin' men, wherever they may be, And when the flag is sent ashore they always stick around And face whatever's goin' on to keep it off the ground. They're there to teach the enemy just what Old Glory means, An' while the cheerin's goin' round three cheers for the marines! —New York American.

PRESIDENT GIVES OUT STATEMENT

REGARDING PARTY'S ATTITUDE TOWARD BUSINESS—NO HARM TO BE DONE.

(Associated Press.)

Washington, D. C., July 8.—De-claring it to be unfair to regard the Democratic party as an enemy of big or little business, President Wilson today gave out a statement in support of Paul Warburg of New York and Thomas D. Jones of Chi-cago, his nominees for the Federal Reserve Board. President Wilson says that the vast majority of men connected with big business are honest and incorruptible, and the patriotic statement continues: "I predict nothing will be done by the Democratic majority in the Senate that will throw suspicion upon such." President Wilson hopes that Warburg will reconsider his decision to accept. Wilson is confident that Jones will be confirmed.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually pro-duces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, be-cause the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and mis-ery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, con-stitution, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kid-neys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irri-tates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney diseases.

THE PLATFORM.

When the democrats met in Baltimore they adopted as one of their planks with which the platform was to beguile the country the following:
"We denounce the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toll. We demand a return to the simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government.

No sooner, however, did they get in power than they forgot this statement and, like the one on the Panama tolls, they concluded it was only done for effect. A tub thrown to the whale, says an exchange. The present congress is as lavish with the people's money as any former one has been, and now they have appropriated a million and a half of money to provide places for democratic detectives in hunting up people who ought to have paid an income tax. This will placate a large number of unfortunates who are now "cooling their heels" waiting for a job, and it is hoped that the revenue will be swollen through their efforts. This is a good deal like the scheme to send a commission abroad to study tariff conditions during the vacation, the purpose, of course, being to allow some friends of the president a junket for the European tour at the expense of the nation.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE PROGRESS.

"For the first time" is a phrase which is becoming more familiar in news reports pertaining to the equal suffrage movement.
For the first time a speaker of the House of Representatives at Washington assures a delegation of equal suffragists that their fight for the franchise is practically won.
For the first time a delegation of western equal suffragists will make a descent upon an eastern state with the purpose of impressing the importance of their cause upon the political parties.
For the first time representatives of the different countries are to be present at a business meeting of the Board of the International Suffrage Alliance.
For the first time women members of the Finnish Parliament, it is said, union session at Stockholm next autumn.
For the first time women members of the Finnish Parliamen, it is said, are to participate in this gathering. And so on.
This, in fact, is a record-making period in the suffrage movement. It might be said almost that woman is for the first time within measurable distance of coming into her own the world over; it may be said with positiveness that for the first time in the pages of history it is becoming universally conceded that the enfranchisement of women is only a matter of arrangement.
Speaker Clark's acknowledgement of the existence of conditions that will give votes to women in every state of the American Union by 1917 "or a little later" is important rather for the sentiment it reflects than for the prophecy it contains. Whether women in the United States shall have the franchise by 1917 or 1927 is of small moment beside the fact that progress toward the realization of her long cherished hope of political equality is now actual and generally recognized. All indications point to the prospect that in the next two or three years the suffrage cause will pass milestones more rapidly than ever.

The Morning

BY WALT MASON

When shades of night are falling, I always hit the hay; but from it I am crawling at early dawn of day. So help me, Alexander, I would not miss that treat; for there is nothing grander than morning, co'ol and sweet. The little birds are singing, as they go scoting by;
the rising sun is stringing strange tints across the sky; the winds are softly sighing, the dew is on the grass, and butterflies are flying above the garden sass. Hushed is the workday clamor of busy mart and street, the sound of saw and hammer, the tread of weary feet, the voice of town lot booster, that stands in need of grease—the crow of wakeful rooster alone disturbs the peace. It is the sweetest portion of the day, this hour of bliss; and sleep is an abortion at such a time as this. To see the bright sun breaking Night's chains, that had him bound; to see the old world waking, to try another room; to see the shadows creeping away, a routed flock—oh, who would lie a-sleeping till 9 or 10 o'clock?

COMPANY ACQUIESCES
WITH COMMISSIONERS

HAVE COUNTED ALL
BIRDS IN COUNTRY

ON POLE LINE MATTER AND WORK WILL STOP UNTIL COUNCIL MEETING.

Commissioners Gannon and Schu-ler and City Attorney Mark Keller, the committee to whom was referred the question of the new pole line which has been under construction by the Illinois Northern Utilities Co.
on College avenue and Lincoln avenue, have secured the acquiescence of the company officials that work on the line be stopped until the matter can be taken up at a meeting.
It developed, according to the commissioners, during their investigation that the officials of the Utilities company had been given permission by Mayor Brinton to proceed with the work, and that they had taken it for granted that the mayor would not have given permission without having discussed the question with members of the council, thus assuring himself that his attitude would be concurred in by them.
The two commissioners who are on the special committee state that no individual member of the council has the right to grant such permission, and accordingly, after having discussed the matter it was agreed that work should stop until the question can be thoroughly threshed out at a meeting which will be held soon.

Mayor Brinton Replies.

The above story of the trouble was shown to Mayor Brinton when he called at the office this afternoon and he dictated the following reply:
"In reply to the above, I wish to state that Mr. Marshall in a conversation over the phone stated that the proposition simply meant the placing of new poles on College avenue and taking out the old poles, and that no extra poles were to be placed, and that he had shown the blue prints to Commissioner Schuler.
Thus I stated I saw no harm in their going ahead. There was nothing said about occupying streets, over which they had no franchise. However, a committee has been appointed with power to act. The best way to settle it would be with the Utilities company and not through the newspapers."
"And I wish further to say that so far as I am concerned I am perfectly willing to treat the Utilities company fairly. They are a Dixon institution and there is no cause to vilify or abuse an institution in our midst."

DEPARTMENT ISSUES
LOCUST BULLETIN

"BIRDS" MAKE DEBUT IN WEST
VIRGINIA THIS YEAR—
COMING WEST.

The records of the various broods
just issued a notice of the appearance of the famous periodical locusts—"seven year," "thirteen year" and "seventeen year." The locust this time has made its debut in West Virginia. The locust takes many years to develop, but there are several recognized broods in different places over the United States.
The brood is common this year
all over West Virginia, host of Ohio, and with a sprinkling in the counties of Pennsylvania and Virginia. This is the northern variety of the "seventeen year" locust.
There is another variety known as the "thirteen year" locust, but this is confined to the extreme south and never extends beyond the Potomac, or farther than the southern part of Illinois.
The records of the various broods
have been kept, in some instances for more than a hundred years, so that the entomologists know where to look for their appearance each year. In the grounds of the department of agriculture more than a decade ago some of the insects were collected and allowed to deposit their eggs in the shade trees. A record was made of the time when these eggs were planted, and they hatched out exactly seventeen years afterward, just as the name would indicate.
The locusts really do very little damage, and do not injure large trees at all. They may do a little damage to young nurseries or young orchards, where a great many eggs have been even with the young nurseries the bulk of the damage can be headed off by a vigorous pruning back after the eggs have been deposited.
Experiments have been tried with carbolic acid washes and numerous other insecticides. Few of them seem to have any material effect in checking the work of the insect.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Dixon Citizen's Experience

Something new is an experiment. Must be proved to be as represented.

The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.

But the endorsement of friends is. Now supposing you had had luck. Now supposing you had a bad back.

A lame, weak, or aching one. Would you experiment with it? You will read so many so-called cures.

Endorsed by strangers from far away places.

It's different when the endorsement comes from home.

Easy to prove local testimony.

Read this Dixon case:

J. B. Clark, 722 Highland Ave., Dixon, says: "I had kidney complaint and backache and the doctors seemed unable to do anything for me. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a supply at Leake Bros.' Drug store. They cured me and I haven't had any serious trouble since. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills worthy of the highest praise and I gladly confirm the endorsement I gave them some years ago."

"Mr. Clark is only one of many Dixon people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Clark had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. PROSECUTOR TO ASK INDICTMENT

Seek True Bill Against Woman in Bailey Murder Case.

SENSATIONAL STORY IS TOLD

District Attorney in Long Island Tragically Discredits Tale of Gunman and Woman Conspiring to Kill Doctor and Elope—Developments Forecast Defendant to Be Named.

Freeport, July 8.—The district attorney of Nassau county will ask the grand jury at Mineola next Thursday morning to indict a woman for the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, shot last Tuesday night as Dr. Edwin Carman stood beside her with a hand on her shoulder.

Freeport is in no doubt as to the identity of the woman.

Her name has been on the lips of every man, woman and child in this village since the report of the pistol that killed Mrs. Bailey.

Amazing Story Rejected. In announcing his purpose to demand an indictment, District Attorney Smith apparently rejected one of the most amazing stories that was ever told in connection with a murder case—that the woman concerned had planned to elope with a New York gunman; that they had plotted together for the murder of Dr. Carman; that the gunman, his name was given to the authorities as Joe Anderson, brought a pistol to the doctor's house last Tuesday night, broke a pane of glass in a window of the doctor's office and was about to pull the trigger when the woman snatched the pistol and fired, killing Mrs. Bailey in her hurried aiming at the doctor.

Therupon, as the story goes (District attorney and sheriff burn their shoulders at it and Wm. J. Burns says it's nonsense) the murderess gave $50 to Anderson, told him to run and returned herself to an accessible hiding place. The story was related to the district attorney by a young man who insists that he was a friend of Gunman Anderson, and that he knows it is the truth. But the volunteer has not been arrested, and according to Mr. Smith, is not even under surveillance.

But the case has reached a stage such that the men in charge of the inquiry are able to discard all theories save one, the one that will be presented to the grand jury for its opinion, the theory that Mrs. Bailey came to her death, as the result of the blind jealousy and unreasonable rage of a woman. Smith, the district attorney, and Pettit, the sheriff, have worked it out for themselves and their conclusions have been supported by the opinion of William J. Burns.

CHICAGO TEACHER
SUES IOWA BANKER

She Says He Jilted Her and
She Wants $25,000.

Chicago, July 8.—Chicago friends of Miss Nellie Irwin, a teacher in the Brownell school, were surprised to learn that she has instituted suit for breach of promise against N. D. Tade, well-known banker and politician of Hillsboro, Ia., and candidate for state treasurer on the Progressive ticket. Miss Irwin lives at 6025 University avenue. She asks damages of $25,000.

Miss Irwin's bill recites that she has known Tade since 1902. Their courtship was romantic and swift. Within a few months after they were introduced they became engaged, she declared.

It was decided that the marriage should take place in June, 1903. Then came postponements. First, Miss Irwin says, it was Tade's finances. Then it was his health. Later he gave other reasons. But when, finally, the date was set for November, 1913, and Tade again failed to keep his promise, she investigated, she says, and learned that he had married another woman more than six months previously.

Freeport, Ill., July 8.—The city authorities have forbidden the sale of near-beer, which has been sold at retail by former Freeport saloonkeepers since the town went "dry."

VILLA TO SHAKE
CARRANZA HAND

War in Mexico "Will Now Go on in Peace."

PANCHO TO GIVE UP FUNDS

Officers of the Supreme Chief Whom Military Leader Imprisoned at Chihuahua Will Be Released—Agreement Indicates Angeles for Provisional President.

El Paso, Tex., July 8.—Announcement has come officially that the differences between the Mexican rebel leaders, Pancho Villa and Venustiano Carranza, have been healed and that "the war will go on in peace." Villa wired his officials in Juarez to surrender the funds of the Carranza government and it was given out in Saltillo headquarters of Carranza that Villa would journey there and shake hands with Carranza and renew his pledge of loyalty to "the supreme chief."

Official statement of the points settled was kept a secret. Whether certain officials surrounding Villa and Carranza have been eliminated is not known, but the understanding of the lieutenants of both principals is that "certain changes will be made by both Carranza and Villa in the personnel of the men surrounding them." The changes will be made gradually.

Angeles to Remain. General Felipe Angeles, against whom Carranza has a personal grudge apparently, is to remain with the Villa army with the title of general-in-chief of artillery, according to friends of Villa.

Villa will remain supreme in command of his army and is, in addition, to have command of the two co-operating Carranza armies in the move against Mexico City. Both Obregon on the west and Gonzales on the east will take orders from Villa in the campaign. Villa is to permit Carranza to retire all his outstanding flat money with an issue of the constitutional government, but will issue his own script as the necessities of the require.

Villa Concessions to Stand. Carranza is not to interfere with concessions granted by Villa. Villa is to surrender at once all the money he confiscated from the Carranza government on the occasion of his break with Carranza. Likewise the money which Santiago Winfield is alleged to have smuggled to Villa out of the $3,000,000 issue of Carranza currency recently printed in Washington and Villa is to release Carranza's treasurer, General Serapio Aguirre, and other Carranza officials held prisoners in Chihuahua. Villa will continue to name his own civil officials in the territory which he conquers or holds.

Angeles for President.

When Mexico City is taken "the chiefs of the forces in the field" will select a man for provisional president who will then attempt to pacify the country and hold constitutional elections.

This last clause is taken by many to mean that General Angeles will be the provisional president when the final victory over Huerta is won, if ever it is.

THROWS SCARE IN ANN ARBOR

Woman Health Employee Starts Campaign Against Squirrels.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 8.—"I fear for the future of Ann Arbor if the hundreds of tame squirrels now at liberty on the campus of the university are permitted to roam as at present," said Miss Anna Scriver, one of the speakers at the Chautauqua lectures to be given here during health week, which started Monday.

"Bubonic plague is carried by fleas on rats, but these fleas have not confined themselves to rats entirely but have been found on the California ground squirrels. Is there any reason to doubt that sooner or later our tame squirrels will become bubonic plague carriers?"

Race With Train Is Fatal.

Valparaiso, Ind., July 8.—Alfred Of son, fifty-two years old, was instantly killed at Porter, this county, while trying to cross the tracks in front of a Lake Shore train.

Drowns in Six Gallons of Water.

Vincennes, Ind., July 8.—Clarence Smith, aged one year, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denison Smith, while visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schroeder fell into a six-gallon jar of water and was drowned.

Shoots Sister, Then Kills Himself.

Topeka, Kan., July 8.—Albert Dunford shot and probably fatally wounded his sister, Mrs. John Wilburn. He then sent a bullet through his own brain, dying almost instantly. The attempted murder and suicide are said by the police to be the result of a family feud. Dunford's wife has just left him.
